Miss Callifs Interview

We are here in Mrs. Callif's class on February 22, 2017 to talk about the differences about previous years and this year in teaching. First this year she has 4 new team members the four teachers are Mrs. Davell, Mrs. Hobbins, Mrs. Sullivan, and Mrs. Jump she says it's fun to talk and collaborate with her students and staff. Also, Mrs. Callif likes to have new students and talk about their hobbies and how her students like having discovery also she likes to hear what they did or like about discovery. She likes all the different teachers, she and they are all very different, kind, hardworking, creative and persistent about learning and teaching about new ideas.

Book Review

Mark Of The Thlef
by Jennifer A. Nielsen

In the book Mark of the Thief Made by a compelling author, it is a book about a kid named Nic, a slave withholds Julius Caesars lost treasure, an ancient bulla from Caesars ancestor the goddess Venus gave powers to and now Nic has it. While retrieving the bulla he meets a griffin (half lion half eagle) and names her Caela. When the two escape the cave they come up to the surface just to be captured...again and put into the Roman games. Luckily they survive the games with the help of the bulla. Then he flees to the sewers just to find the girl he's angered with. Nic journeys around Rome to reunite with his little sister Livia and to set Rome in peace by using the bulla for good, unlike some people- senators, Praetors, emperors and generals claim to want it for the glory of Rome. In this action packed thriller Nielsen puts the puzzle together to compella well made book. If you had to keep Rome from falling apart, could you?

Hilliard school new school times

Hilliard city schools are going to start later. The sixth graders are waking up early and the schools think that they are not getting enough sleep so they are going to start later. I think is good for children because it says if the kids are awake they get better scores in every class they are going to start next year (2018).

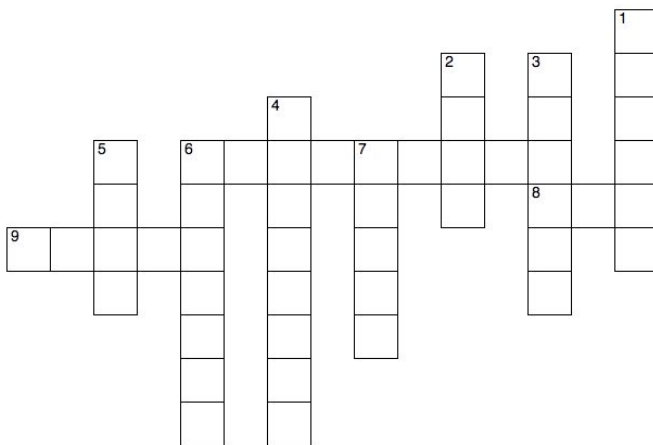

We asked the 5th grades teachers how they feel about the new school times Miss weadock said she thinks that it will be nice in the morning because students would get more sleep however she does not thinks that that it would be nice for schools start later because students would get out of school later. Also we asked miss weadock what differences will it cause for jw and she said for jw she thinks that jw will have later lunches especially 5th grade she thinks kids would be more hungry since it will be later. Then We also asked miss Allen how you feel about the new school times? And she said. They have little more time in the morning to wake up. we also asked mis Allen what differences will they cause for jw she said it would not make much of a difference. We also asked miss Pratiy how she feels about the new school times and she said she likes the early times so she can leave earlier and she is a morning person. we also asked miss pratiy what differences will they cause for jw and she said she thinks it will help the parents in the morning because they have more time in meetings.

Book Clubs Debate

Here we go.

Hello, I am Nathan, one of the opinion writers for the Weekly Splash.

Hello people, I am Zach, one of the most awesome opinion writers of all time.

Yeah, sure...

Today, me and Zach got into a heated debate. We are going to do these debates every once in awhile, so here are the ground rules:

The person talking can talk until they end their point, and allow the other person to talk.

This font is Nate and this font is Zach.

Okay? Let's get into this. I'm going to flip a Pokemon coin to see who wins. I call heads and...

And it is...

Heads! Sorry, I don't have my pokemon coins with me. Let me say a few reasons why we should keep Book Clubs in school.

My first point is that book clubs are a good way to find out about books that you might like. And, you can talk about books and relate to other people. Plus, if you missed a detail, the book club can tell you about it. To be honest, I don't have many strong points, but I have a lot of counterpoints to Zach. Your turn.

Ok I'm going to do my best at this. So, I think book clubs need to leave and stay OUT! FIRST OF ALL! PEOPLE THINK THAT IT'S EDUCATIONAL AND SHARING YOUR THINKING IS FUN! But really, really? Do you believe that? Yes? Well 65% this will change your mind because you're going to say it's fun, well not to everybody. So first of all, how many times have you gotten off topic and got yelled at by a teacher? I have. Second of all, how many times have you not read and you're behind A LOT on your book? I also have. Also, people aren't always interested in listening to you talk. Which is rude and disrespectful. And how many times have people talked over you and they just don't care? A LOT, So if you're one of those people just stop. FIFTH, why do we always have to share when we don't want to? We have rights don't we? Well apparently not, when teachers tell you to share but you just want to listen to what people have to say, WHY? Because they think you have to. You don't, WE HAVE RIGHTS! Well after this article we do.

On what the word count is, My side of the talk WON. 199 vs. 197. I know you're like: "IT'S A TWO WORD DIFFERENCE!" Well it's more words = More Info.

Those were the most garbage words I could have ever imagined you could have ever said. Let me debunk those last 2 paragraphs for you, blind man.

Two words. Wow. TWO WORDS. You can not make any points with two words. More info can not be placed into 2 words.

Also, if you want to hear other people share, then the other people also want you to share, too!

Sorry, but I have to have one last counterpoint.

"Second of all, how many times have you not read and you're behind A LOT on your book?"

It is your responsibility to read your book, and if you can't do that, you should be put back a grade.

Your turn.

Dude, people can be slow readers like I am so don't make a big fuss like you've never seen that kind of stuff happen in your "Must Have" life.

Riddles

Read the highlighted lines out loud.

This is this cat

This is is cat

This is how cat

This is to cat

This is keep cat

This is someone cat

This is busy cat

This is for cat

This is forty cat

This is seconds cat

Now read the third word in each line out loud.

I belong to you, but others use me more than you do. What am I?

I am your name.

You can feed me. But when I drink I die. What am I?

I am fire.

The more you take, the more you leave behind.

What am I?

I am footsteps.

There are 5 candy bars in a bowl.

Jimmy took out three. How many are left.

What loses its head in the morning but gets it back at night?

A pillow.

When is homework not homework?

When it is turned into the teacher.

What is a word made up of four letters, yet is also made up of three, sometimes is made up of nine, rarely consist of six, and never written with five?

The word 'what' has 4 letters in it, 'yet' has three, 'sometimes' has 9, 'then' has 4, 'rarely' has 6, and 'never' has 5.

Mrs. Weadock gives you a week to read your book club book, including the weekends. I am confident that the slowest reader can read enough in a week.

DOWN TO FACTS. People's brains don't always process as quickly, That's why people stutter. Even adults stutter, because nobody helped them as a kid. I have witnessed someone that stutters in the Dominican Republic. STAND MY POINT...

That is exactly why we should have book clubs. We can talk to other people about the stuff that we relate to and have opinions on, while helping other students in their reading skills, and if you don't have the responsibility to read a book, then you need to be put back a grade or two.

But what happens if, let's say the ENTIRE group had stutter problems, how would they help then?

Then over time in the book club they would learn how to talk normally.

Over time? But that means more time to read when you said people give them a week or two to PERFECTLY get the book read, than speech? Dude why they could just split it up into TWO days instead.

Number One, you don't need to "Perfectly" get the book read.

Number Two, more time to read is a good thing, but just not too much would be good.

Your Turn again,

Ok so, on your Number One you said that you don't need to "Perfectly" get the book read even though, you said earlier that it's their fault they didn't get the book read. Explain that?

Perfectly getting the book read is different from reading the book.

But, you say it's different but you still blame those who don't read it perfectly, though you said you don't have to "Perfectly" read the book.

That makes no sense... let me take a minute to wrap my head around that...

I never blamed those who didn't perfectly read the book.

We are almost done, so 1 more paragraph for the both of us.

Ok as you said, you don't blame those who don't read their book to their stopping point. YET you said a couple sentences ago; "That is exactly why we should have book clubs. We can talk to other people about the stuff that we relate to and have opinions on, while helping other students in their reading skills, and if you don't have the responsibility to read a book, then you need to be put back a grade or two." Explain that.

meme this kid

The responsibility to READ the book is different from the responsibility to PERFECTLY READ the book, which we don't need to do.

Well, that is all for this debate, catch you next time.

Bye!!!
